I. About the Project

The Project entitled "Right to Development and Scheduled Tribes Sub - Plan: The Case of Telangana State" intends to cover four districts of Telangana where scheduled tribe population is substantial in numbers. Right to Development links human rights with development, in particular social and economic development. Development and human rights are interdependent, So far there has been a gap between two. In many cases development is pursued at the cost of human rights. It is understood that for adivasis development means displacement and deprivation. To bridge the gap between Adivasis and other section of society social budgetary schemes like Scheduled Tribes Sub-Plan are a way forward. But such schemes are suffering from problems like inadequate allocation non-utilization and diversion of funds from its inception.
