It is very important to understand the process of Examination with the correct information and Analysis. It is a trend that the number of person who appears in the IAS Prelims Exam is around 50 % of the Number of Total Applicants.

IAS Prelims Question Paper Analysis is very important for all the IAS aspirants as it helps in the IAS Preparation for the IAS Prelims Exam 2017 which is scheduled in the month of June 2017. The IAS Prelims GS Questions Breakup is given here with the detail analysis of each and every Question in the upcoming articles.

The Aspirants are more curious to know the whole analysis of General Studies Paper I and Paper II. As usual the General Studies Paper I was much surprising for the aspirants because it did not followed the trend of asking questions from static portion of the various subjects and was tilted towards the Current Affairs Topics and Economy topics. Around 48 questions were asked from the Current Affairs and 45 questions appeared from Jagranjosh'current affairs section itself. The usual trend of asking questions from Geography was missing.

The aspirants who didn't cover the Current Affairs topics of last at least 6 months, the Paper was quite terrifying for them. The General Studies Paper I consist of almost of 48 questions from the dynamic or Current Affairs section alone while the only 50 questions has been asked from the static portion which is quite different from the previous trend of asking questions in IAS Prelims Exam.

However, there are reasonable number of questions has been asked from Science and Technology, Environment and Ecology and Government Schemes and various policies.
