

PG vacancies are not filled in Arunachal Pradesh since 2011

Every Govt colleges in our state are running with inadequate teaching faculties which trouble the students in particular and parents as well. One such fine example is Govt Jawaharlal Nehru College, Pasighat, oldest college of the state established way back in 1964, but wherein PG section are extremely in need of teachers.

Here it has been witnessed that even a single teacher for PG section has not been recruited so far by the Govt of Arunachal Pradesh even though Post graduate courses are being offered since 2011. Few teachers who were appointed for under graduate courses are voluntarily teaching the PG students without any incentives. Teachers may be recruited to the department of Geography, Hindi and History to teach the PG students.
