

The Times of India

Youths of Gujarat will be equipped for Indian service by making GPSC exam structure like UPSC

GANDHINAGAR: To provide wide opportunity to Gujarat's skilled youths for service to Gujarat Government, Gujarat Chief Minister Vijay Rupani has decided to hold GPSC exams by every two years for Class-1 and Class-2 recruitment aiming that State youths can appear in exams and get succeed and get an opportunity to join service to the state.

Rupani dedicated newly constructed GPSC Bhavan, worth Rs. 37 crore in Gandhinagar on Monday. He also launched mobile app of commission.

He said that due to delayed recruitment process for a long period of five years in an organization like GPSC; youths of state were losing opportunity for their contribution in Government Services.

Now youths will be able to get immediate opportunity due to timely and transparent exam methods. Moreover he expressed confidence that their trust to whole administration will be stronger.

Inspiring for planning for GPSC Exam method like UPSC exams, he said that we want to make more and more State youths capable for serving in Indian services by appearing in such exams. He also suggested making results computerized and declaring fast and also establishing working method, so it can be fastened. He also expressed thought for using Social Medias, whats App medias for exam advertisements and programmes.