

Hindustan Times

20,000 teachers to be recruited in Haryana

20,000 teachers will soon be recruited in Haryana, Education Minister Ram Bilas Sharma said on Monday, as he asserted that the government was “laying special emphasis” on quality of education.

Talking to mediapersons in Panchkula, Sharma said the recruitments would be made as part of the steps the state government was taking to improve standard of education in Haryana.

He said the reforms were being brought in both curriculum as well as the state’s education system. “Shlokas from the Bhagvad Gita have been incorporated in the curriculum to inculcate moral values in school students,” said Sharma.

“Reforms are also being introduced in higher education so that college students may become self-reliant after completing their studies,” he added.